REPORT ON AWARENESS ON MENSTRUAL HYGIENE

Date: 5/6/2021

Menstrual hygiene refers to the practice of maintaining cleanliness and proper care during menstruation. This includes using clean menstrual products (such as pads, tampons, or menstrual cups), changing them regularly to prevent infection, and proper disposal of used products. Good menstrual hygiene also involves access to safe and private washing facilities, understanding the menstrual cycle, and awareness of what is normal and what might be a sign of a health issue. It's crucial for health, well-being, mobility, and dignity. Education and awareness about menstrual hygiene are key in combating the stigma and misinformation often associated with menstruation.
